

PROTEIN THERAPY IN ALLERGIC DISORDERS

The advantages of specific protein therapy over the more usually practised non-specific treatment has become increasingly recognised as the treatment of choice in such Allergic Disorders as Hay Fever, Asthma, Migraine, etc.

Duncan's Improved Allergen Testing Outfit (as illustrated) has many advantageous features and is invaluable to the consultant and general practitioner alike providing a reliable diagnostic guide to Allergic Disorders.

PLACID PREGNANCY

The ideal pregnancy is symptomless. There is no acidity, indigestion, pruritus, backache or other indication of faulty metabolism. Morning sickness is slight or absent, appetite is good, the bowels act daily and interference with normal life is reduced to a minimum.

Urine tests show freedom from albumen and a neutral or faintly alkaline reaction.

Such cases are likely to be typical when the physician prescribes Alka-Zane to attain systemic alkalization and a daily replenishment of basic mineral reserve.

ALKA-ZANE contains the alkalizing salts of sodium, potassium, calcium and magnesium, in physiological proportions, and is taken as a refreshing effervescent drink.
