The Royal Society of Medicine Video Library of Surgery and Medicine

In association with the Royal College of Surgeons of England

- All videotapes produced under the direct supervision of The Royal Society of Medicine.
- Topics selected by an Editorial Board who combine expertise in surgery and medicine with substantial teaching experience.
- All surgical videos endorsed by the Royal College of Surgeons of England, assuring the educational soundness of content and approach.
- Demonstrations are by senior practitioners whose expertise is not widely available to students.
- Programmes concentrate on principles and procedures.
- Practitioners discuss potential problems and their solutions.
- Practitioners demonstrate techniques and suggest alternatives.
- Advanced camera techniques used for surgical programmes to give a substantially better view than a theatre observer can normally obtain — often even better than the view of the surgeon.
- Broadcast quality technical standards used throughout to give exceptional visual clarity.
- Full range of video formats available.

THE DRUGS HANDBOOK 1984-5

Paul Turner, Professor of Clinical Pharmacology,
St Bartholomew's Hospital, London

Glyn Volans, Director of the Poisons Unit,
Guy's Hospital, London

"A godsend to those who require succinct, rapid information on drugs."

British Book News

Written by two leading authorities on the use of drugs, this well established book, now in its fourth edition, describes the mechanism of action, the therapeutic indications and the main side effects of all available drugs. Updated annually, it is concise and accurate.

Drugs are listed alphabetically under their trade or brand names and again under their medical or approved name. Drugs available on prescription in the UK are included plus the more significant non-prescription drugs. The information is clear, well presented and easily understood — it will be invaluable to all those who need quick access to basic information on drugs.
